Etta James, hailed as the "Empress of Soul," graced the stage with her raw and emotional delivery. Born in 1938, James's childhood was marked by poverty and tragedy, but her talent shone through. Her signature songs, including "At Last" and "Respect," showcased her unparalleled vocal power and ability to convey deep-seated feelings. Her induction into the Hall of Fame was a testament to her lasting influence and iconic status in the realm of soul music.

Ann Wilson: The Voice of Heart

Ann Wilson, the charismatic lead singer of the band Heart, captivated audiences with her soaring vocals and ethereal stage presence. Together with her sister Nancy, she co-founded Heart in 1973, becoming one of the most successful female-fronted rock bands of all time. Their anthems, such as "Barracuda" and "Crazy on You," empowered countless listeners with their messages of resilience and self-acceptance. Wilson's induction into the Hall of Fame celebrated her exceptional vocal range, songwriting prowess, and enduring impact on the rock music landscape.

The Supremes: Motown's Golden Trio

The Supremes, consisting of Diana Ross, Mary Wilson, and Florence Ballard, emerged as one of the most iconic groups in American music history. As part of the legendary Motown label, they released a string of hit singles, including "Baby Love," "Stop! In the Name of Love," and "You Can't Hurry Love." Their sophisticated harmonies, captivating stage performances, and undeniable charisma solidified their place as one of the most influential girl groups of all time. Their induction into the Hall of Fame recognized their remarkable contributions to the Motown sound and their enduring legacy in the music industry.

Joan Jett: The Rebellious Rock Star

Joan Jett shattered the barriers of rock music with her raw and rebellious style. As the lead singer of the band Joan Jett & the Blackhearts, she became a symbol of strength and independence for women worldwide. Her iconic anthem, "I Love Rock 'n' Roll," became a global hit, showcasing her fierce determination and unapologetic attitude towards life. Jett's induction into the Hall of Fame celebrated her groundbreaking achievements, her influence on countless musicians, and her enduring status as a rock legend.

Sister Rosetta Tharpe: The Godmother of Rock 'n' Roll

Sister Rosetta Tharpe, known as the "Godmother of Rock 'n' Roll," was a pivotal figure in the development of popular music. As a singer, guitarist, and pianist, she fearlessly fused gospel music with blues elements, creating a unique and infectious sound. Her electrifying performances and powerful lyrics influenced countless musicians, including Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, and Jerry Lee Lewis. Tharpe's induction into the Hall of Fame recognized her groundbreaking contributions to the genre and her role as a pioneer of modern music.
