The Civil War in Sierra Leone

The civil war in Sierra Leone began in 1991, when a rebel group known as the Revolutionary United Front (RUF) launched an attack on the government. The war lasted for 11 years and claimed the lives of an estimated 50,000 people.

The RUF was notorious for its use of child soldiers. It is estimated that up to 10,000 children were abducted during the war and forced to fight. Child soldiers were often subjected to horrific abuse, including being forced to kill and maim.

Prince Malela was just one of many children who were forced to become child soldiers during the war. He was abducted from his home in 1997, when he was just 10 years old. For the next five years, he was forced to fight for the RUF. He was forced to kill and maim, and he witnessed unspeakable horrors.
